

Human, Female African American Skull

Character Traits

Neurocranium, large brain case, high retreating forehead, projecting nasal bones, moderate alveolar prognathism, flat nasal region (including the nasal root), broad nasal aperture, retreating zygoma, somewhat truncated nasal spine, depressed nasal root, short nasal spine, Viscerocranium, projecting facial skeleton, teeth, canines, incisors, pre molars, molars, chin, smaller mandible, foramen magnum bottom of the skull, features that are consistent with female include mild prominence of the cranial sites for musculofascial attachment including the nuchal lines, the temporal lines, the mastoid processes of the temporal bones and the supraorbital tori, biped, omnivore